

Laboratory technicians will be able to test any blood or other samples that the doctor has ordered. They will run tests and try to find what is making you sick.